

National Parks!

National Parks Everywhere!

Did you know that the United States has over 375 special parks called national parks? There are parks in almost every state in our country. Some people say it would take a lifetime to visit every national park in this country.

All Different Kinds

There are many different kinds of national parks. There are parks with tall mountains. There are parks with big forests and giant trees. There are parks with lakes and streams. There are parks with canyons, deep holes in the ground with tall cliffs.

Wildlife

Many types of animals live in national parks. There are big animals like wolves, buffalo, moose, and even bears! There are small animals like squirrels, rabbits, and beavers, too. Animals in national parks live in their natural habitats, or real homes.

Many Activities

People like to visit national parks. They can take long hikes on paths and trails.

They can camp outside under the stars. They can swim in the lakes, rivers, and streams. Sometimes people even ride on horses or in hot air balloons to see the beautiful sites.

Would you like to visit a national park? You might see many kinds of animals and have fun in the great outdoors.
